20 setups judged, none reached a fill. Nothing here can be validated on money yet.

What the skips were worth thin sample (n=15) — read as a hint, not a rule

15 setups were skipped. None of them were traded, so their cost is unmeasured — the engine only records what it took.

Rules already in force (1)

- On a SELL that lost $120.40: Price ne 19:08 pe HIGHER LOW banaya tha, matlab trend up shift ho raha tha.

Check each loss above against these: a loss that broke a rule already written is a discipline problem, not a knowledge problem.

What to do differently

1. Nothing in this session separates cleanly enough to become a rule. That is a finding, not a failure — the sample is small and forcing a filter onto it is how the last six months were lost.
